Utah League of Cities and Towns
104th Annual Convention

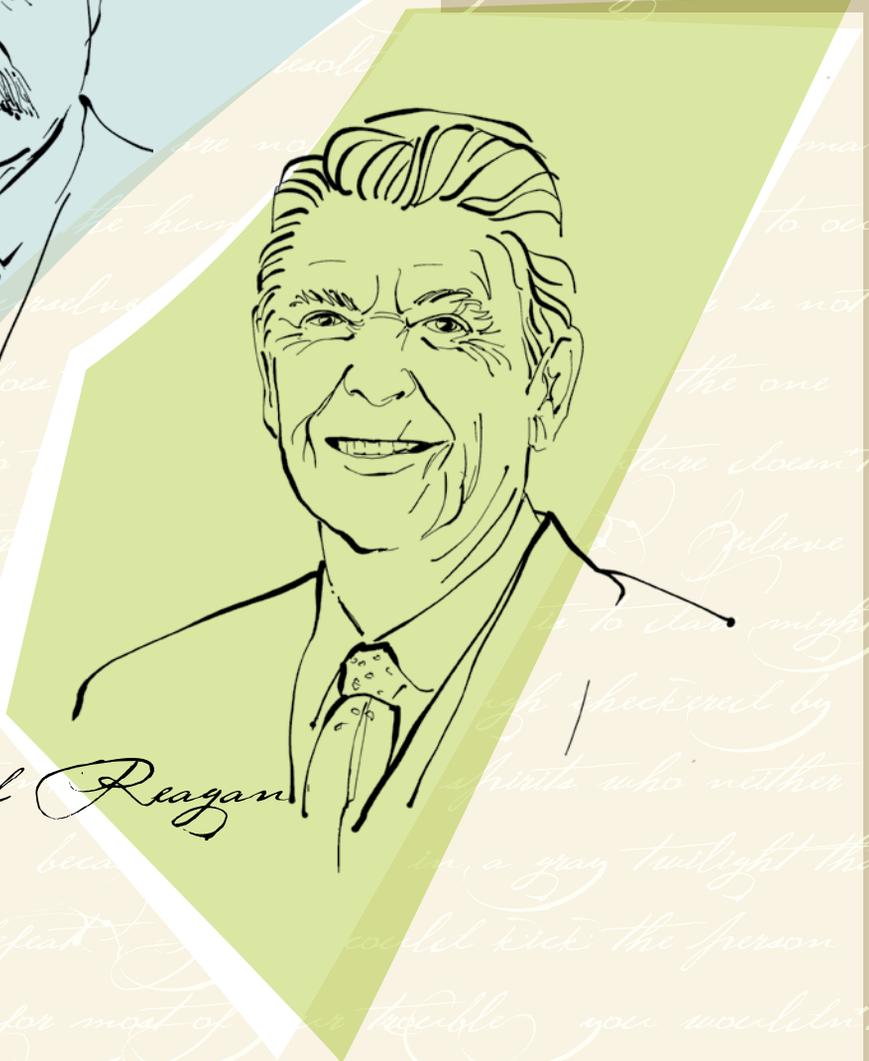

Leadership is Action, not Just a Position

"It is only through labor and painful effort,
by grim energy and resolute courage,
that we move on to better things."

TEDDY ROOSEVELT

Ronald Reagan

"The greatest leader is not necessarily the one who does the greatest things.
He is the one that gets the people to do the greatest things."

RONALD REAGAN

"There are no constraints on the human mind, no walls around the human spirit, no barriers to our progress except those we ourselves erect."

RONALD REAGAN

Leadership is Action, not Just a Position

Leadership. The other "L" word. The quality that community leaders are supposed to have and use. But what is leadership? Would you know it if you saw it? Would you know how to use it if you had it? Is it a choice, a position, a calling?

As city officials you are in the position to lead your communities, which is commonly easier said than done. Sometimes the daily minutiae can get in the way of the bigger vision required to move our communities forward. This is where leadership is required.

Leadership comes in many shapes and sizes and it is not as elusive as you might think. But it does require effort.

President's Message

On behalf of the League's board of directors, it's my pleasure to invite you to attend the 104th Annual Convention to be held in Salt Lake City on September 14th -16th.

The motivations that prompted each of us into public service are likely as similar as they are diverse. Regardless of why we chose this path, those of us elected to our office — and those appointed as well — are expected to lead. If only it were that simple.

At this conference we'll take a look at leadership as an idea, as a verb, as a quality, as a skill, and more. Leadership is complex, and as so many of us know, it's never as easy as it looks.

We will hear from prominent keynote speakers who will shed some light on the leadership skills of former presidents and those with whom they served. The 40-plus workshops will provide ideas and skills to help you become a more informed leader.

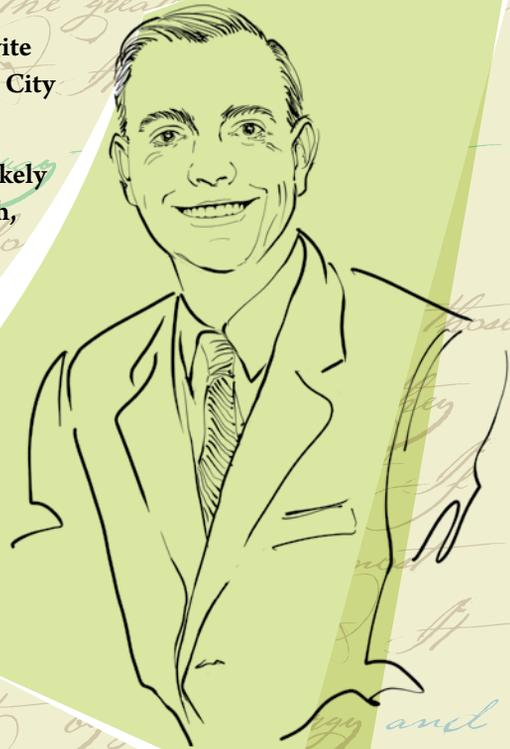

Our agenda this year includes more topics than any conference we've ever had. The ideas will be flowing fast and we're certain you'll return home with plenty of new ideas to implement in your respective communities.

I look forward to seeing you in September.

Sincerely,

MAYOR MIKE WINDER

Mayor, West Valley City

Mayor Mike Winder

"Far better it is to dare mighty things, to win glorious triumphs, even though checkered by failure... than to rank with those poor spirits who neither enjoy nor suffer much, because they live in a gray twilight that knows not victory nor defeat."

TEDDY ROOSEVELT

Speaker Highlights

Wednesday Lunch

DORIS KEARNS GOODWIN

Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Doris Kearns Goodwin is best known for her eloquent ability to share the talents, skills and human failings of the leaders and presidents who have formed this nation. Those who attended our 2008 Annual Conference may remember that Ms. Goodwin was our opening keynote speaker at that event, sharing details from her best-seller, Team of Rivals: The Political Genius of Abraham Lincoln. When she visits with us in September we've asked her to share stories and insights from her ongoing research and writing of her next book about the progressive era focusing on Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, William Taft and the golden age of journalism, which will be published in 2012. Ms. Goodwin has a reputation for providing trenchant, informed, and enthralling commentary on current events by demonstrating how history has answered similar questions. With a deft wit and an uncanny ability to weave stories that put you "right in the room" as history occurs, Goodwin offers extraordinary insight into the lives of the leaders who have shaped the United States. She is the author of several best-selling books and won the Pulitzer Prize for No Ordinary Time: Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt: The Home Front in World War II. She is the person many turn to for a keen historical perspective on political and current events. The film version of her book Team of Rivals is being produced by Steven Spielberg and is set for release in 2012.

His other books cover wide-ranging topics from the Cold War to Hurricane Katrina. Brinkley is contributing editor for Vanity Fair, The Los Angeles Times Book Review and American Heritage. Special Events

Wednesday Morning: Preconference Workshop

8:30 - 11:30 Leadership During Challenging Economic Times

One of the most challenging situations currently facing local elected officials is leading effectively during strained economic times. In this extended workshop you'll learn how to provide successful leadership during hard times by focusing on result-driven goals with a realistic action plan. You'll also learn strategies to refocus the mission of the city with its service priorities, and how to streamline a process that produces results, adds value to the community, and creates a sustainable community environment. (There is no additional cost for this special event.)

Instructor: Lyle Sumek, President, Sumek and Associates

Thursday: Smaller City Focus

How Can Small Cities Be Cool and Compete in the Global Economy?

"Cool Cities" has increasingly become a buzz-word among both community and economic development practitioners. It's pretty cool to be a cool small city and Utah has a number of them. So what makes a city "cool"? David Ivan has been studying this issue for many years, visiting over 250 small cities in the process, and will share his research with us on Thursday, September 15. In these workshops he'll talk about the results and best practices that will resonate with community leaders from our smaller cities (that's most of you), leaving you to say "Hey, why didn't I think of that?" He'll discuss the core values that youth and residents seek in a community as a future place to live, work, and play and you'll learn about trends and opportunities that can impact the future of your community. This is a two-part presentation; the first will be Thursday morning and the second Thursday afternoon.

Presenter: David Ivan, Community and Economic Development Specialist, Michigan State University

Friday Morning: Annual Business Session

Our annual business session will be held Friday morning, September 16th from 8:00-11:00 a.m. Yes, it's a bit long, but during that time we will cover a number of critical issues that we think are important for all to hear. The primary purpose of this meeting is discuss ULCT policy that will become part of our 2012 legislative agenda. We will review and vote on any policy resolutions from members during this time.

For the remainder of the session we'll focus on some very critical topics for all local officials. University of Utah research economist Pam Perlich has dissected the 2010 Census and will describe what it tells us about Utah today and what it likely means for the future. Dr. Chris Nelson will paint a picture of growth in Utah based on his detailed work in growth projections. Andrew Gruber from Wasatch Front Regional Council will describe how his organization, and AOGs around the state, can partner with local governments to manage the changes ahead. We encourage you to bring along your 94 oz. "cup" of hot or cold caffeine, get comfortable, and become informed.

Nominations to the ULCT Board

At the Annual Convention each year several vacancies on the League's board of directors are filled with new members. If you have a desire to serve on the board, or know someone who might, please watch for the nomination documents that were sent to each city in early July. Any mayor or council member from a dues paying member city or town is eligible to be nominated and to nominate. If you have questions about this process, please contact Lincoln Shurtz at the League office: (801) 328-1601 or (800) 852-8528 or lshurtz@ulct.org. Nominations are due by September 1, 2011.

Workshops Gone Wild!

Have We Got a Workshop Format for You!

After doing this for 104 years we've determined the following: Utah's local officials don't all think alike (but almost), don't all look alike (but there are resemblances), and they don't learn alike (as hard as we've tried to make them). So every few years we add a new workshop format to the conference agenda, thinking that presenting information in a different way might be more effective, and it often is. But this year we've gone extreme! We've added two new formats, retooled another, and we think/hope/pray that you'll reap the benefits. Here are the formats on tap:

Single Topic Workshops

Nothing mysterious here. Some topics are complex and require plenty of time to explain. We'll offer several workshops in this format, but far fewer than we've ever had before.

Get to the Point!

If you don't want all the details, but just the bullet points, then our now-famous Get to the Point (GTP) session will make you very happy. We gave this format a trial run at our Midyear Conference and it was a hit. So we're throwing caution to the wind and hosting multiple GTP sessions at this conference. This is how it works: seven presenters each have 6:40 to talk about their topic. During this 6:40 of fame and glory they will use 20 PowerPoint slides and have only 20 seconds to talk about each one (yes, the slides will be on a timer), and just when they are about to hyperventilate, their time will expire, you will applaud (no obligatory Utah standing ovations allowed) and then it's on to the next presenter! It moves fast, it's fun, and best of all it's informative! Look for "GTP" on the agenda.

One Hour, Multiple Topics Workshops

There are some topics that might need a bit more than 6:40 to explain, but don't require the entire hour. These topics will be accommodated in workshops in which we have two, and sometimes three, presenters in the same session, sharing the time equally but presenting on topics that are different, but related. Again, more bang for your buck, at no extra cost!

Roundtable Workshops

Back by popular demand for the fourth consecutive year, the roundtable session provides an opportunity to gather information quickly. It's like speed dating, without the awkwardness. During this session you'll have a chance to rotate to three different tables, spending about 20 minutes at each, hearing a short presentation from someone whom we hope knows more about each topic than you do. By the end of the session you'll be three times smarter than you were at the start of the session.

Mobile Workshop

This year we're offering one mobile tour on Thursday, September 15th for those who want to get away from the conference for a few hours and see a few projects in local communities. The description of the tour follows below. The bus will depart at 7:45 a.m. and will return by 9:30 a.m. Space is limited to 35 people and we encourage you to preregister. On-site registration will only be available if there is space. The tour will be canceled if we don't have at least 10 preregistrations.

Mixed Use Development in Two Sizes:

Mixed use development is long past the fad stage and now quite common in many communities. Most of these developments have been successful while some have been otherwise. On this tour we'll visit two very different mixed use projects, one in Bountiful that is quite small, and the other in Farmington that is on the larger end of the spectrum and adjacent to a stop on the FrontRunner line. Find out how each project was envisioned, what worked, what did not, and what city leaders might do differently if they had the chance to take a mulligan.

The Q&A Cafe

Sometimes to truly understand a topic you just need to sit down and have a conversation with someone who knows more about it than you do. That's why we have the Q&A Cafe, a place to talk and exchange ideas with experts and other municipal officials. The cafe's menu will include a number of savory topics served up by creative "chefs," and not one of them will use a PowerPoint presentation. The topics for the cafe are not listed on the agenda in this newsletter because we're still figuring what we want to serve, so to speak. Throughout the summer we'll be working on the cafe's menu of topics and by the time September 14th rolls around, we'll be ready for business.

What's on the Agenda

TENTATIVE AGENDA

This is the tentative agenda, which means it's not final, but it's close. And while we think it's already pretty great in its tentative form, that won't stop us from trying to make it even better. Some workshops may disappear, get new titles, or shift to different times. We'll send the final agenda to conference registrants about one week before the conference begins.

THE ILLUSIONARY WORLD OF DAVID BLAINE

Friday Evening

DAVID BLAINE

David Blaine has redefined magic around the world with his unique brand of intimate, closeup magic. His deceptively low-key, ultra-cool manner leaves spectators more amazed than if he'd razzle-dazzled them. It's been said that "he's taken a craft that's been around for hundreds of years and done something unique and fresh with it."

But it's not just the magic that has made him one of the most unique performers in the world. He has also gained notoriety for his high-profile feats that have set new boundaries of human endurance. In 1999, Blaine was buried alive for seven days and seven nights. A few years later, in the middle of Times Square, he was encased in a six-ton block of ice for three days and nights. In 2002, he stood atop a 100-foot pillar in the middle of New York's Bryant Park without a safety net for 36 hours. The following year he survived on only water for 44 days and 44 nights in a Plexiglas box dangling over River Thames in London. Let's not forget that in 2006, Blaine was submerged in a glass sphere in New York's Lincoln Center for seven days and seven nights. And most recently in 2008, on the Oprah Winfrey show no less, Blaine held his breath underwater for 17 minutes and 4.4 seconds to set the new world record. On September 16, 2011, Mr. Blaine will attempt to set the record for mesmerizing a roomful of Utah's local officials who otherwise don't think anything will ever mesmerize them. This might be his biggest challenge ever, but we think he has a shot!

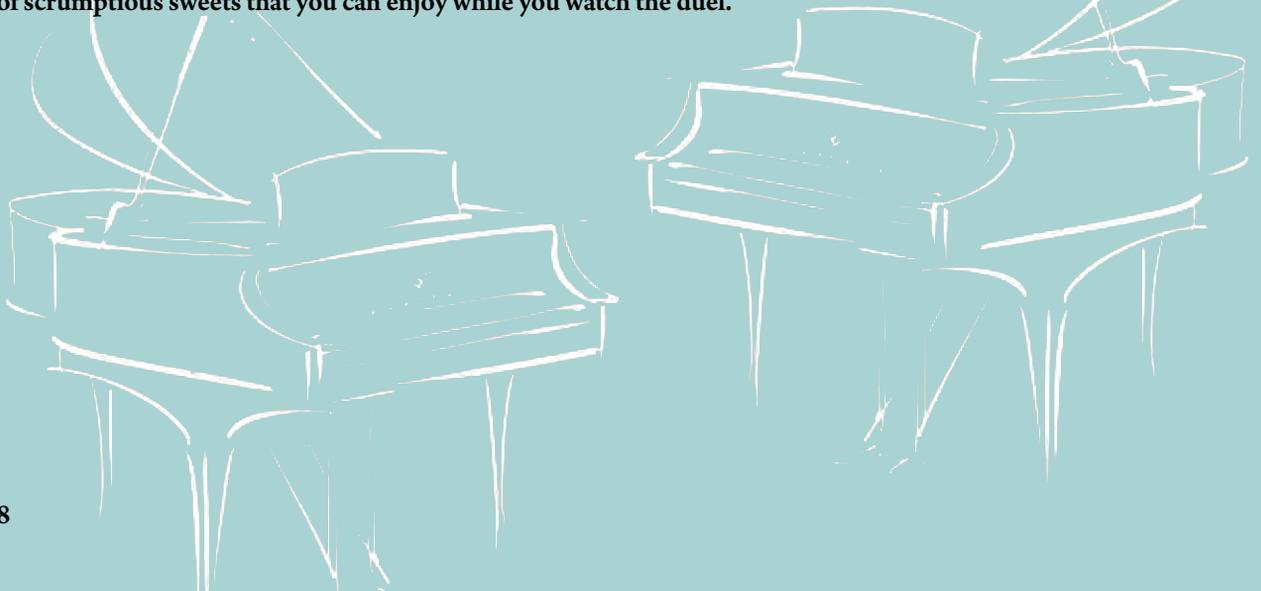

Blaine has been the special guest performer for President Bill Clinton and Hillary Clinton, Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger, Mayor Michael Bloomberg, Henry Kissinger, Bill Gates, Lance Armstrong, Donald Rumsfeld, Prime Minister Gordon Brown, Larry Page, Sergey Brin, Muhammad Ali, and soon, the Utah League of Cities and Towns.

Wednesday Evening

DUELING PIANOS

After the workshops end on Wednesday afternoon we hope you'll download the day's highlights with your colleagues over dinner in one of the many great restaurants in downtown Salt Lake City. But don't linger too long over dinner and get yourself back to the hotel by 8 o'clock because that's when the duel begins! Two dueling pianists will do their best to belt out more blasts from the past than Casey Kasem could in his Saturday countdown. These guys have a repertoire of songs that span many decades and they'll challenge you to name a song that they can't play. Yes, they'll know "Freebird"! Oh, and don't order dessert after dinner because we'll have a huge selection of scrumptious sweets that you can enjoy while you watch the duel.

2011 Essay Contest Winners

Sponsored by Energy Solutions

The winners in the 2011 essay contest represent a cross section of our state's urban and rural communities. Wherever they live, kids will let us know how they feel about their home turf. If elected leaders ever get depressed about how overwhelming it is to make progress in a community, they need to talk to the kids. They have a way of seeing the good in a community. The following students are this year's award winners:

Information for the fifteenth annual essay contest will be sent to school principals in September. You should check and encourage your local schools to participate. Perhaps a student from your community will be honored next year.

Partner's Program

For those members bringing along a spouse or a significant other, we'll be providing a special agenda just for them, like we always do. The partner's agenda is still coming together, but so far it includes a keynote presentation from former KSL and KTVX anchor Ruth Todd, topical workshops, a visit to the illusionary world, and maybe even hula hooping; yes, hula hooping. We have a great core group of spouses who enjoy this annual opportunity to see old friends and create new ones, and we particularly love it when new folks join in the fun.
